MARVIN ROWE and CHERYLLYN RIDLEY, Plaintiffs v. YORK CITY SCHOOL DISTRICT, Defendants

No. 2012-SU-000686-44

Injunction – School Code

1. This case involves an application for Preliminary Injunction filed by Plaintiffs against Defendant, involving application of 24 P.S. Section 1-111(e) (School Code) which restricts employment of an applicant who has been convicted of certain enumerated offenses.
2. The Court found that this section applies only to “applicants” and not current employees and therefore granted Plaintiffs’ application for a preliminary injunction.

In the Court of Common Pleas of York County, Pennsylvania, Civil Division, MARVIN ROWE and CHERYLLYN RIDLEY, Plaintiffs v. YORK CITY SCHOOL DISTRICT, Defendants; Injunction – School Code

York, Pa., Monday, February 27, 2012

Before the Honorable JOHN W. THOMPSON, JR., Judge

APPEARANCES:

THOMAS W. SCOTT, Esquire
For the Petitioners

MARC G. TARLOW, Esquire
For the Defendant

HOWARD G. HOPKIRK, Esquire
Office of the Attorney General

DECISION

We convened this hearing this morning to address a preliminary injunction sought by Marvin Rowe and Cheryllyn Ridley, employees of the York City School District.

Petitioners were terminated based on an amendment to the school code, Particularly Section 1-111(e). Despite the School District’s concession regarding the injunction, we have independently considered the legal standard to obtain injunctive relief, and have concluded that the Petitioners have met the standard for an injunction primarily to maintain the status quo, and to avoid irreparable harm.

We note, as an aside, that harm would be visited upon the School District if the Petitioners ultimately prevailed and the School District had paid replacement employees for services the two Petitioners rendered to the District.

We’re not unmindful of the Solicitor’s statement that the School District has economic issues and to pay for services, and then to pay again, it does in fact harm the District. They’re not the Petitioners, but that is not an insignificant consideration.

We are persuaded that the Petitioners particularly would prevail on the merits, which brings us to an interpretation of the statute under which the two employees were terminated.

Let me say at the outset, I agree with the analysis of my learned colleague in Delaware County, Judge Kenney, in his analysis of the amendment in question. In sum, without reciting the Court’s analysis verbatim, we agree that the statute on its face is prospective for applicants and is not retrospective for current employees. We agree with his observation particularly that had the legislature wished to specifically address current employees, they could have simply and directly done so, but they didn’t. As we interpret the statute, it is clear, employment is restricted for an applicant who has been convicted of certain enumerated offenses.

As a further aside, in considering this overall circumstance, we didn’t talk about, we didn’t get into it, it may not be significant, but it does occur to the Court that we have no indication that Mr. Rowe, as a custodian, has any contact at all with children in our school district. Indeed, I’m aware generally that many custodians do their work when the students are not even present. In other words, they work after school hours and not during the school day. Now, that may be true, some custodians may be on duty to clean up a mess or clean up something. Now, with regard to cafeteria employees, Mrs. Ridley, yes, she may have some contact with the students as they pass through the lunch line or whatever, or she may in fact be a kitchen employee in the back has no contact, but again, that’s a minor point. They’re talking students underlying this thing and protecting our school children and I go along with that.

However, the language to me is just crystal clear not subject to any debate its prospective.

Having said that in a somewhat abbreviated form, it occurs that as it relates to the merits of the return to employment, we have all the evidence we need and would conclude that there’s no further need for any further proceedings or testimony as it relates to a return to employment. So I’m prepared to make the injunction issue ex parte now a permanent injunction.

Having reached that conclusion, and having done so on a nonconstitutional analysis, we turn to the Motion to Intervene, and the oral motion to withdraw all counts in the Petitioners complaint except for Count 1 dealing with their employment. We are guided by what we believe is a correct statement and counsel has confirmed that that we are not to reach constitutional issues simply to reach them. If they are unnecessary to a decision in the underlying dispute, we are to avoid constitutional issues if at all possible. In this particular circumstance, I come

Now, I'm not unmindful of the Department's arguments as to their interest in effecting the legislation and enforcing certain things, however, as tempting as it is to say, injunction in place as Delaware County and go to a Commonwealth Court and have fun, I don't see the necessity for that in this particular circumstance given the motion to withdraw all other counts.

Now, it's not lost on me that counsel could have not said abort, gone downstairs and filed praecipe to withdraw counts and nobody can do anything about it. Now, there is a motion to withdraw, and frankly, I think that is a proper motion focusing on the interest of the employees only, and understanding I don't have to reach a constitutional analysis if it's unnecessary to result in the underlying dispute, and I do come to the conclusion that this is a dispute resolvable by statutory interpretation period. And my statutory interpretation, as I have said, the amendment is prospective.

Having reached that conclusion, as I have in addressing then first the oral motion to withdraw all other counts, I will grant that motion and direct counsel to file a praecipe withdrawing the other counts which then brings me to the Motion to Intervene.

Again, as tempting as it is to just say yes, and drop all this on the Commonwealth Court, I am stuck with the conclusion that that's unnecessary in this particular case, in these particular circumstances, given my analysis.

That being so, Motion to Intervene is denied, and in part -- in part, that is based on the conclusion there's nothing further that needs to be done in this particular case.

Now, that's not to say the Department can't send their citation sanction notice and there'll be a whole separate proceedings, which I'm the sure District will respond to by saying I have a Court Order that these people should be employed. That may be an inconvenient methodology to test my decision as correct or erroneous, frankly, I'm not sure whether the denial of the Motion to Intervene gives counsel an avenue to get to where he wants to go, and that's fine. I just don't think I have to get on the same bus.

ORDER

So, based on that somewhat Reader's Digest analysis, the Order of the Court is, that the request for preliminary injunction is now made permanent. The oral motion to withdraw all other counts is granted. For purposes of the docket, we do direct counsel to file praecipe to withdraw whatever the counts are.

And, third, as it relates to the Motion to Intervene, we deny the same.

And that, we believe, addresses all the particular issues before the Court necessary for resolution of the underlying dispute, employees versus the school district.

Copies of the Order and the Decision we have rendered will be served on counsel including Mr. Hopkirk of the Attorney General's Office, and thus, I believe that addresses everything presently before the Court.

BY THE COURT,

JOHN W. THOMPSON, JR., JUDGE
