In re: Estate of Paul D. Griggs

Orphans' court – Appeal from probate – Standing of trustee – Modification of distributive provision of trust – Will contest – Discovery – Attorney-client privilege

1. Discovery in the Orphans' Court Division is sanctioned by statute. The Decedents Estates and Fiduciaries Code provides that the Orphans' Court Division, by general rule or special order, may prescribe the practice relating to depositions, discovery and the production of documents. Further, the Supreme Court has promulgated Orphans' Court Division Rule 3.6 permitting the local orphans' court to prescribe the practice relating to discovery.
2. The Chester County Orphans' Court Division has issued Rule L3.6A concerning discovery, providing court approval must ordinarily be obtained prior to the taking of depositions or compelling the production of documents unless the parties are in agreement as to discovery and file a stipulation concerning same.
3. Only a party in interest who is aggrieved by the decree of the Register of Wills, or a fiduciary whose estate or trust is so aggrieved, may appeal therefrom to the court. An executor shall not, by virtue of such designation, be deemed a party in interest.
4. Although an executor ordinarily has no standing in a will contest, a trustee has a duty to protect the interests of the beneficiaries of the trust. When those interests could be adversely affected by another will or codicil, he is said to be "aggrieved" by a decree allowing the same.
5. Where a trustee accepts a trust and undertakes to carry out its provisions, he owes to a duty of upholding the trust in the event of an attack upon it. That duty includes participation in the discovery process.
6. A party may obtain discovery regarding any matter, not privileged, which is relevant to the subject matter involved in the pending action.
7. It is accepted that the protection afforded by the attorney-client privilege survives the death of the client. Thus, in litigation involving the estate of the client, the privilege may be raised or waived by the client's personal representative.
8. Claims of attorney-client privilege must be asserted document by document rather than as a blanket assertion.
9. A privilege log should ordinarily identify the author of the document, the date, the subject matter, a brief characterization and all recipients.
10. While practical difficulty exists for a party asserting the attorney-client privilege to prepare a log that gives sufficient information for an opposing party to object to non-production of a document without disclosing the content of the document itself, because of the importance of the attorney-client relationship, the courts place the burden of proof on the party seeking disclosure and all doubts must be resolved in favor of nondisclosure.
13. A will contest was initiated by Charlotte N. Griggs, the widow of Paul D.

Griggs. She alleged that the decedent, at a time when his mental health was in decline, came under the undue influence of another woman (respondent). As the result, it is alleged that respondent was able to assume total control over the decedent's financial affairs, was appointed his agent under a power of attorney, and became his residuary beneficiary of an $8,000,000 estate. Certain discovery issues arose among the parties and the Court Held, that a trustee has standing in an appeal from probate that seeks to modify the distributive provisions of the trust. The Court further held that objections to the various discovery requests were sustained in part and denied in part.

Opinion July 13, 2012:-

IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS, CHESTER COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA
ORPHANS' COURT DIVISIONIN RE: ESTATE OF PAUL D. GRIGGS, Deceased
NO. 1510-1958

Matthew W. Holt, Esquire, for petitioner, Charlotte N. Griggs
Karl Prior, Esquire, for respondent, Michael F. Rogers
Sarah M. Ford, Esquire and Joseph P. McDonald, Esquire, for respondent, Nancy Sheil

OPINION

The central question before the court is whether a trustee has standing in an appeal from probate that seeks to modify the distributive provisions of the trust. The court holds that he does.

INTRODUCTION

This will contest was initiated by Charlotte N. Griggs, the widow of Paul D. Griggs. She alleges that the decedent, at a time when his mental health was in decline, came under the undue influence of another woman, respondent Nancy Moore (now Sheil). As the result, it is alleged that respondent Sheil was able to assume total control over the decedent's financial affairs, was appointed his agent under a power of attorney, and became his residuary beneficiary of an $8,000,000 estate.

Letters testamentary were issued to Michael F. Rogers, Esquire, the executor named in the will. Mr. Rogers was also appointed by the decedent as the successor trustee of the Paul D. Griggs Revocable Trust. Charlotte N. Griggs seeks to modify certain unfavorable trust provisions for the same reasons, and petitioned the court to order the trustee to file the trust agreement of record.

Certain discovery issues between Charlotte N. Griggs, Nancy Sheil and Michael Rogers are now before the court for resolution:

1. Charlotte N. Griggs objects to engaging in discovery with trustee Rogers on the ground that he has no standing in this will contest.
2. Charlotte N. Griggs also objects to the non-compliance by respondent Sheil with the local rules of procedure of Orphans' Court, which require court approval prior to engaging in discovery.
3. Nancy Sheil objects to the breadth of four subpoenas proposed to be served by Charlotte Griggs, one of which seeks decedent's entire legal file for life-time matters, implicating the attorney-client privilege.

The court has disposed of these issues in its Amended Decree dated June 28, 2012, infra, and now writes to explain its rationale.

BACKGROUND

For the purposes of ruling on the current discovery disputes, the court utilizes the following allegations.

The decedent, Paul D. Griggs, died December 9, 2010 survived by his wife, Charlotte N. Griggs, the petitioner, one child, Jason Griggs, and three grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Griggs were married for 52 years. In the last ten years of his life, the decedent suffered from various medical infirmities, allegedly including significant deterioration in his mental health. Around 2007, the couple relocated to a planned community in Phoenixville. This was to serve as their retirement residence and brought them closer to their son Jason and their grandchildren.

Nancy Moore, respondent (now Sheil), lived a few doors away. She befriended Paul D. Griggs. Nancy Sheil allegedly utilized undue influence and took advantage of the decedent. The prior will executed by the decedent on July 1, 1999 provided only for the decedent's family.

On July 2, 2008, decedent executed a new will in which he gave all of his tangible personal property to his friend, Nancy Sheil, and disposed of the residue of his estate:

real, personal and mixed, wherever the same may be situate, to the trustees of that certain inter vivos Revocable Trust created by me on the 2nd day of July, 2008, and executed before the execution of this Will, as amended to the date of my death, of which my attorney, MICHAEL F. ROGERS is named successor Trustee, to have and to hold, IN TRUST, for the uses and purposes and subject to the terms and provisions thereof, including any alterations or amendments thereto, or any other inter vivos trust which may hereinafter be substituted therefor.

Contemporaneously with his execution of the July 2, 2008 will, decedent created the Paul D. Griggs Revocable Trust by Trust Agreement. The July 2, 2008 trust agreement provided for the creation of a Trust A – Marital Deduction Trust – and of a Trust B – Residuary Trust. Under the residuary trust provisions, Ms. Sheil was to receive two million dollars and a residence with the remainder to be held in trust for, inter alia, Jason.

On November 12, 2008, decedent replaced the July 2, 2008 revocable trust agreement with a new trust agreement. The November 12, 2008 trust agreement created:

Trust A: a Marital Deduction Trust into which Decedent provided for the placement of various business interests, the income of which was or is to be paid to Charlotte but from which Charlotte has no right to principal distributions.

Trust B: a Family Trust into which the remainder of Trust A was to flow upon Charlotte's death for the benefit of Jason. Trust B provides Jason with limited principal invasion rights and, upon Jason's death, remaining Trust principal was to flow to Trusts created for Jason's children.

Trust C: a Residuary Trust from and through which the Trustee was to make outright distribution of the balance of the Trust Estate to Ms. Moore, were she to survive Decedent. If Nancy did not survive Decedent, Trust C was to be added to Trust B.

In sum, decedent created several trusts under the November 12, 2008 trust agreement with at least four sets of beneficiaries possessing separate and distinct interests, i.e.:

Charlotte, who has the right to income, but not principal, from Trust A;

Jason, who, upon Charlotte's death, has the right to income and limited principal distributions from Trust B;

Jason's children, who are to receive Trust B principal (either in Trust or outright) upon Jason's death; and Nancy, who is to receive an outright distribution of the balance of Trust assets.

At the same time, Paul D. Griggs signed the November 12, 2008 trust agreement, he executed a codicil. The November 12, 2008 codicil effectively replaced the reference in the residuary clause of decedent's July 2, 2008 will from the July 2, 2008 trust agreement to the November 12, 2008 trust agreement.

Decedent served as the initial trustee under the November 12, 2008 trust agreement. Decedent named Mr. Rogers as successor trustee, effective upon his death. A final amendment to the trust agreement was executed February 4, 2010.

On or about December 7, 2009, Paul D. Griggs appointed Nancy Sheil as his agent under a power of attorney.

The July 2, 2008 will, and the codicil dated November 12, 2008 were admitted to probate on December 16, 2010 by the Register of Wills of Chester County.

On November 10, 2011, Charlotte filed a “Petition to Modify Will and Trust Agreement of Paul D. Griggs and to compel Executor Michael F. Rogers to file Paul D. Griggs Trust Agreements dated November 12, 2008, as amended on February 4, 2010, and otherwise to appeal the Decree of the Register of Wills admitting the Will of Paul D. Griggs to Probate.” Altogether, Charlotte contests the decedent’s July 2, 2008 will, the November 12, 2008 codicil, and the November 12, 2008 trust agreement. In addition to undue influence, she has cited the decedent’s lack of testamentary capacity as a basis for her challenge. For the purposes of this opinion the court will refer to the entire matter as a “will contest”.

Michael F. Rogers is an attorney and represented the decedent in his lifetime. He prepared the will, codicil, trust agreement and amendments thereto.

Charlotte N. Griggs filed her Notice of Elective Share on or about January 6, 2012.

DISCOVERY ISSUES

Since the filing of the petition by Charlotte N. Griggs, she, Ms. Sheil and Mr. Rogers have been operating on discovery matters by agreement.

However, when Michael F. Rogers, in his capacity as executor and trustee, served requests for production of documents and interrogatories upon Charlotte N. Griggs, she objected and raised his standing to participate in the litigation on the basis that he was merely a fiduciary with no requisite interest in the litigation. Mr. Rogers begs to differ. Additionally, he and Ms. Sheil have objected to the service of four proposed subpoenas by Charlotte N. Griggs directed to two credit card companies, to Mr. Griggs’ former attorneys, Ford & Buckman, P.C., and to Yahoo.com.

Finally, Charlotte Griggs and her son, as beneficiaries of the Griggs Family Trust, have articulated opposition to any expenditure of monies from the Griggs Family Trust on litigation or discovery related to the estate as a waste of the trust’s resources in seeking discovery against her or her son without authorization by them.

Discovery in the Orphans’ Court Division is sanctioned by statute. The Decedents Estates and Fiduciaries Code provides that the Orphans’ Court Division by general rule or special order may prescribe the practice relating to depositions, discovery and the production of documents, 20 Pa. C.S.A. §774. The Supreme Court has promulgated Orphans’ Court Division Rule 3.6 permitting the local orphans’ court to prescribe the practice relating to discovery. The Chester County Orphans’ Court Division has in turn issued Rule L3.6A concerning discovery. It provides that court approval must ordinarily be obtained prior to the taking of depositions or compelling the production of documents. When, however, the parties are in agreement as to discovery, they are obliged to file a written stipulation with the court signed by all parties or counsel and providing specific stipulations as to the nature and extent of discovery as well as a time table for completion.

The rationale for the local rule, which is but a few years old, is the apprehension by the court that a beneficiary’s inheritance may otherwise be devoured by the costs of discovery, and this procedure allows the court a means of monitoring and protecting against such an eventuality.

When this case came before the undersigned on a status call on January 5, 2012, the court advised the parties that given the very large amount of the estate, the court had no particular fear such as is envisioned by the rule, and advised counsel that they could proceed without stipulation accordingly; were any disputes to arise, the court would deal with them as of course. They have arisen.

Standing of the Trustee in this Case

It is recognized in the Decedents, Estates and Fiduciaries Code that only a party in interest who is aggrieved by the decree of the Register of Wills, or a fiduciary whose estate or trust is so aggrieved, may appeal therefrom to the court, 20 Pa. C.S.A. §908(a) (emphasis added). This same provision goes on to provide that an executor designated in an instrument shall not by virtue of such designation be deemed a party in interest. The question then becomes whether Michael F. Rogers as a fiduciary falls within the class of one “whose estate or trust is so aggrieved” in this case.

Although an executor ordinarily has no standing in a will contest, a trustee has a duty to protect the interests of the beneficiaries of the trust. When those interests could be adversely affected by another will or codicil, he is said to be “aggrieved” by a decree allowing the same. See, In re Thompson’s Estate, 416 Pa. 249, 258, 206 A.2d 21, 27(1965). In this case, Charlotte Griggs is seeking a decree that would eliminate some of the current trust provisions favoring other beneficiaries. Such a decree threatens the existence of part of the trust and attacks its distributive provisions. Thus, even though as trustee he has no personal interest in the litigation, it cannot be said that Michael F. Rogers is a disinterested party. He is aggrieved by any such decree and thus has a standing to participate in this litigation in order to discharge his duties. This proposition is not novel. See, e.g., In re Fetter’s Estate, 151 Pa. Super. 32, 35, 29 A.2d 361, 362 (1942), recognizing that where a trustee accepts a trust and undertakes to carry out its provisions, he owes to those interested the duty of upholding the trust in the event of an attack made upon it; c.f., Hoffman’s Estate, 19 Pa. Super. 70 (1901). That obviously includes participation in the discovery process pursuant to the state and local orphans’ court rules.

Charlotte N. Griggs has sent a notice of her intention to serve four subpoenas to produce documents to the following:

- (1) Citizens Bank Card Services – for copies of all account transactions for Paul D. Griggs from January 1, 2007 through December 9, 2010;
- (2) Citicorp Credit Services, Inc. – for copies of any and all account transactions for Paul D. Griggs from January 1, 2007 through December 9, 2010;

- (3) Ford & Buckman, P.C. – for a copy of the entire lifetime legal file of Paul D. Griggs;
- (4) Yahoo.com – for (1) copies of all documents relating to the domain name of Elleda.com from January 1, 2007 through December 9, 2010, and (2) copies of any and all non-spam emails to and from the email address paulgriggs@yahoo.com from January 1, 2007 through December 9, 2010.

Respondent, Nancy Sheil, filed timely objections. She cites to the violation of Chester County Local Orphans' Court Rule L3.6A requiring prior court approval, as well as Charlotte N. Griggs' failure to notify Michael Rogers of her intention to issue the subpoenas. Ms. Sheil points out that Michael Rogers as executor would have the right to raise or waive the attorney-client privilege in respect to the request for the lifetime legal file from Ford & Buckman, P.C. Finally, Ms. Sheil objects to the subpoenas on the basis that they would not be reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence in violation of Pa.R.C.P. 4003.1.

The court has determined that Michael F. Rogers does have standing to participate in the litigation and has excused the parties from observance of the local orphans' court rule concerning discovery.

It is the opinion of the court that the two subpoenas directed to the decedent's credit card issuers are not overbroad. Without prejudice to any later right of either credit card company to complain, reproducing and sending 47 monthly statements does not appear to be expensive or onerous, and may well lead to admissible evidence in respect to Charlotte Griggs' contentions. The matter stands differently however as to the subpoena addressed to Yahoo.com. This appears to the court to be nothing less than wholesale rummaging through the decedent's email without any articulation of what should be germane to the litigation. Collecting all emails sent and received over the course of nearly four years seems exorbitant. The law does not allow a party searching for certain evidence to cull through all extant documents in order to see if any contain it. Some ground must be shown for supposing that a document, whether paper or electronic, has some materiality. One can assume that some part of a presumably large mass of papers could be so connected to the allegations as to be relevant, but that possibility does not warrant a demand for the whole. Mrs. Griggs has attempted to drain the pond where fish may be found rather than to proceed with hooks and lines to the areas of the pond where there is probable cause to believe fish will be located. Lunderstadt v. Pa. House of Representatives Select Committee, 513 Pa. 236, 249, 519 A.2d 408, 415 (1986) with apologies to Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Attorney-Client Privilege

Charlotte N. Griggs has demanded copies of the contents of her late husband's legal file.

A party may obtain discovery regarding any matter, not privileged, which is relevant to the subject matter involved in the pending action, Pa. R.C.P. 4003.1. Attention must be paid to the words "not privileged". The well known attorney-client privilege is codified at 42 Pa. C.S.A. §5928.

It is accepted that the protection afforded by the attorney-client privilege survives the death of the client. Thus, in litigation involving the estate of the client, the privilege may be raised or waived by the client's personal representative. Cohen v. Jenkintown Cab Co., 238 Pa. Super. 456, 357 A.2d 689, 692-3 (1976). In this case, that person is Michael F. Rogers.

To the extent that the executor invokes the privilege in this case, the court will require, pursuant to Pa. R.C.P. 4009.12(b)(2), a privilege log identifying all documents not produced together with the basis for non-production. Claims of attorney-client privilege must be asserted document by document rather than as a blanket assertion. Unger v. Cornerstone Technologies, LLC, 2004 W.L. 5911835 (C.P. Northampton Co. 2004). The log should ordinarily identify the author of the document, the date, the subject matter, a brief characterization and all recipients. The court acknowledges the practical difficulty that exists for a party asserting the attorney-client privilege to prepare a log that gives sufficient information for an opposing party to object to non-production of a document without disclosing the content of the document itself. On the other hand, because of the importance of the attorney-client relationship, the courts place the burden of proof on the party seeking disclosure and all doubts must be resolved in favor of nondisclosure. See, Hopewell v. Adebimpe, 18 D&C 3d 659, 664 (C.P. Allegheny Co. 1981).

Finally, Charlotte N. Griggs objects to the discovery being propounded to her on the grounds that it is a waste of assets and was not authorized by her. The short answer to this is that it is she that brought the litigation in the first place and must accept that such expenses are an inevitable consequence of her decision. The fact is neither the executor nor the trustee, in this case one person, need her authorization. The protections of the local orphans' court division rule in respect to discovery remain available to her. She also retains the right to question such expenses at such later time as an account is presented by the personal representative. The court's Amended Decree follows.

BY THE COURT:

[July 13, 2012]

ORPHANS' COURT DIVISION

IN RE: ESTATE OF PAUL D. GRIGGS, Deceased
NO. 1510-1958

AMENDED DECREE

AND NOW, this 28th day of June, 2012, following a call of the Court's Contested List on June 11, 2012, and an exchange of memoranda by counsel, pursuant to Chester County Orphans' Court Rule L3.6A, it is ORDERED and DECREED that:

1. The objection of Contestant, Charlotte Griggs, to engaging in discovery with the Trustee, Michael F. Rogers, is overruled. As Trustee of one or more trusts funded by a contested will, he is a party in interest in this litigation and thus has the requisite standing to participate in discovery;

2. Michael F. Rogers, as Executor, also holds the decedent's attorney-client privilege and related doctrines, which he may assert or waive. If asserted as to documents, the Court prefers that a privilege log be created and circulated containing sufficient information of each matter to permit a later ruling if necessary;

3. The objections of Respondent, Nancy Moore, now Sheil, to the four subpoenas proposed to be served by the Contestant are sustained in part and overruled in part. The subpoena proposed to be sent to Yahoo.com is too sweeping and needs to be more narrowly tailored so as not to offend the discovery rules.
