Obiter Dictum

From the ABA Journal Daily Newsletter:

[1] The Wisconsin Court of Appeals recently held that it is unconstitutional to draw and test blood of an unconscious driver. In its decision, the court wrote that “the incapacitated driver provision is unconstitutional because the implied consent that incapacitated drivers are deemed to have given and presumed not to have withdrawn does not satisfy any exception to the Fourth Amendment’s warrant requirement.”; [2] The U.S. Supreme Court has rejected an emergency application to allow all voters in Texas to use mail-in ballots. Texas allows voting by mail for voters who are age 65 or older, who have a disability, who will be absent during the election or who are incarcerated. Democrats had argued that discrimination, based on age for mail-in ballots violates the 26th Amendment, which lowered the voting age to 18. The merits of the litigation is currently pending before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit which ruling is expected to be handed down prior to the election.; [3] In a 5-4 decision, the U.S. Supreme Court struck down a restrictive Louisiana abortion law which required doctors at abortion clinics to have admitting privileges at nearby hospitals.; [4] The U.S. Supreme Court ruled 8-1 that a generic work with “.com” at the end is eligible for trademark protection if consumers don’t perceive it as a generic name. While noting that a generic name is ineligible for trademark registration, Justice Ginsburg, who authored the majority opinion, nevertheless determined that Booking.com was entitled to register its trademark relying upon the lower court finding that consumers don’t view Booking.com as a generic term for online hotel reservations. Justice Breyer was the only dissenter.; [5] In a 5-4 decision, authored by Chief Justice Roberts, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that Montana’s decision to ban religious schools from a scholarship program violates the free exercise clause of the U.S. Constitution holding that religious schools can’t be excluded just because they benefit indirectly from state funds. The Montana Supreme Court had determined that the program, which used donations to fund scholarships for children at private schools, including religious schools, in exchange for tax credits, violated the state constitution, which bars direct or indirect aid to religion, resulting in the striking of the scholarship program in its entirety.; [6] The U.S. Supreme Court ruled that states can enforce an elector’s pledge to support the winner of the state popular vote in presidential elections.

Aligned Partners Trust Company is regulated by the Pennsylvania Department of Banking. Our offices are in downtown Pittsburgh and we have been in business since 2000.

We provide the same broad array of trust and estate administrative services as have been historically provided by bank and trust companies. We pride ourselves in becoming very involved with clients, their legal counsel, and advisors to address their individual situation, working closely with them to solve issues and establish effective plans and structures.

We are an independent entity and do not accept or retain financial incentives for using particular products or services, thereby allowing us to objectively select the best available strategy for each of our clients.
